Welcome from the Board, CEO and Executive Management Team

On behalf of the Board of Puntukurnu (Martu for the people) Aboriginal Medical Service, we would like to welcome you to the Pilbara and hope that you enjoy your time working with us.

PAMS is committed to fostering a supportive workplace that values the unique contributions and talents of all of its team members. The culture of the Martu and Nyiyaparli people still runs strongly within the Newman and Western Desert region and makes our communities a unique place to live and work. We are committed to ensuring all staff receive a thorough induction and orientation process and welcome any feedback you may want to provide.

The PAMS management team runs an 'open door' policy so at any time should you require support, assistance or even just for debrief please do not hesitate to contact your line manager.

The Pilbara is a unique and beautiful place to live and work and we hope you will love it as much as we do.

- The Board, CEO and Executive Management Team

About Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service (PAMS)

The Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service (PAMS) is an Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Service based in the East Pilbara region of Western Australia. Established in 1994, PAMS serves the Martu and Nyiyaparli peoples across communities including Newman, Jigalong, Parnngurr, Punmu, and Kunawarritji, delivering culturally safe, holistic primary healthcare services.

What is an Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (ACCHO)?

"An Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (ACCHO) is a primary health care service initiated and operated by the local Aboriginal community to deliver holistic, comprehensive, and culturally appropriate health care to the community which controls it (through a locally elected Board of Management)" - NACCHO 2019

<https://www.naccho.org.au/acchos/>

ACCHS Model of Care

The Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services (ACCHS) Model of Care is underpinned by eight determinants that are required for the wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People and their Communities.

Definition of Health

Community Engagement

Involving local community members in service delivery enables the Practice to engage clients in appropriate healthcare. Aboriginal people must be included in leadership positions and decision making processes.

Multi-disciplinary Team Approach

Utilising the skills and knowledge of a variety of healthcare professionals allows for the complex care needs of clients to be met.

Aboriginal Workforce

An Aboriginal workforce delivering primary healthcare ensures a culturally safe environment.

Roles include: Aboriginal Health Worker/ Practitioners and other Health Professionals, Transport Drivers, Health Promotion Officers, Liaison Officers, Practice Managers, SEWB Workers, Receptionists, and Environmental Health Workers

Cultural Safety

It's important for clients to feel safe, welcome, and empowered.

This can include: Aboriginal staff - familiar faces, Family environment, Layout of clinic, Longer appointments, Use of local artwork/ posters, Communication style, Service is holistic addressing the social determinants of health, Respect for cultural protocols

AHCWA
Aboriginal Health Council of Western Australia

AHCWA aims to promote and strengthen the ACCHS model of care. A model that is built around the delivery of comprehensive, holistic and culturally secure primary health care services.

ACCHS Model of Care

We exist to:

|------------------------------|--|
| EMPOWER | Build the capacity of Aboriginal communities to design and deliver holistic and culturally appropriate health care |
| PROMOTE COLLABORATION | Encourage partnerships between WA ACCHS and key stakeholders |
| ADVOCATE | Provide a voice for the ACCHS sector on key issues that impact the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal people and their communities |
| PROVIDE LEADERSHIP | Enable Aboriginal community leaders to inspire their people to achieve their individual and collective goals and aspirations |

The Pilbara Aboriginal Health Alliance (PAHA)

The Pilbara Aboriginal Health Alliance (PAHA) is a partnership between the three Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisations (ACCHO's) based in the Pilbara region of WA, namely, Mawarnkarra Health Service; Wirraka Maya Health Service Aboriginal Corporation; and Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service (Member ACCHO's).

The Pilbara Aboriginal Health Alliance (PAHA) works tirelessly alongside its member medical services to open up access to vital healthcare for Aboriginal people in the Pilbara. PAHA and its three Aboriginal medical service members impact people, families and community every day, connecting them with whole-of-life health services that support their physical, social, emotional and cultural wellbeing in new and effective ways.

Together, we represent a powerful alliance – a unified voice that stands for health equity, solutions and strong cultural leadership.

Aboriginal Health Council of Western Australia (AHCWA)

The Aboriginal Health Council of Western Australia is the leading authority for Aboriginal health in Western Australia. They exist to support and act on behalf of the 23 Member Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services (ACCHS) across the state, offering support, advocacy, and influence; building capacity, and strengthening the Sector to improve health outcomes for Aboriginal people and their communities.

National Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (NACCHO)

NACCHO is the national peak body representing 146 Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisations (ACCHOs) across the country. These ACCHOs are community-run primary healthcare services that provide culturally informed, holistic care to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. NACCHO's mission is to support these organizations in delivering comprehensive health services, including physical, social, emotional, and cultural wellbeing, to their communities. They play a crucial role in addressing health disparities and promoting self-determination in Indigenous health care.

PAMS Commitment, Vision and Mission, Workplace and Values

Our Cultural Commitment

We strive in our engagements and services to be culturally responsive and appropriate.

Our Vision

Our Vision is to be the most effective provider of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander's health care and wellbeing through: Supporting and promoting holistic healing of the community, by the community, for the community for present and future generations.

Our Mission

To provide innovative and culturally responsive holistic health care to all in the region.

Our Workplace

We are Collaborative, Accountable and Respectful.

Core Values

We are Community Focussed

We are Community Controlled

We are Transparent

We are Inclusive

We are Leaders

Board Composition

A Board of Directors providing the organisation with strategic and cultural leadership governs Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service.

The Board of Directors are chosen by each community council and is comprised of one male and one female representative from each community of Jigalong Parnngurr, Punmu, Kunawarritji and Newman. <https://www.puntukurnu.com.au/>

The board is further supplemented with two independent directors who compliment with their expert knowledge in Governance and Public Health.

Celebrating 30 years!

Prior to 1994

In terms of Western medical services, in the 1980s no medical staff were based at Parnngurr or Punmu or Kunawarritji. The RFDS and Aboriginal Medical Service provided services on a fly-in / fly-out basis. The RFDS stocked a medical chest and did emergency evacuations (as it did for many remote pastoral stations, mining camps and other settlements). This was reliant upon radio-phone communication. Martu also made regular visits to the health clinic at Jigalong. In the early 1990s, clinics and nursing staff were installed at Parnngurr and Punmu.

1994

- Incorporated name - Western Desert Aboriginal Medical Service.
- Established Jigalong, other sites received fortnightly outreach visits

2001

- PAMS Admin moved from Jigalong to Newman

2012

- Parnpajinya clinic opened without funding but closed the following year

1995

- Name change to - Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service
- State Government funds Jigalong, while Commonwealth funds the outer clinics (Parnngurr, Punmu and Kunawarritji)

2006

- Incorporated under the CATSI Act

2016

- Upgrade of both the Kunawarritji Clinic and Kunawarritji Nurse's House under Commonwealth funding PAMS started improving systems and processes, stabilising the Governance of the organisation

Puntukurnu means
“belongs to Martu people”

1998

- Clinics located in outer areas were housed in dongas and operated with only one nurse stationed at each community

2013

- Organisation placed under Special Administration - during this period AHCWA worked with ORIC to stabilise PAMS

(P.A.M.S.)

2017

PAMS started community engagement with Martu (custodians) and Nyiyaparli (traditional owners) to build a clinic in Newman with funding from the Commonwealth government

2021

The security upgrade in remote communities to single nurse posts

2024

Celebrating 30 years!

2022

Opening of dialysis in Newman funded by Commonwealth

2018

Opening of new Punmu and Parnngurr clinics funded by Commonwealth

2020

Opening of Newman clinic funded by Commonwealth

2023

Newly developed staff housing in Jigalong which was funded by the State Government / WACHS

2019

The clinic in Jigalong has been refurbished under funding from WACHS.

History of Puntukurnu (Martu - for the people) Aboriginal Medical Service

Puntukurnu Aboriginal Medical Service (PAMS) was officially established in 1994 as the Western Desert Aboriginal Medical Service, delivering primary health care from Jigalong with outreach to surrounding communities. In 1995, the name changed to reflect Martu ownership and purpose — Puntukurnu, meaning “for the people.”

Throughout the 1990s and 2000s, PAMS transitioned from mobile services to permanent clinics in Parnngurr, Punmu, Kunawarritji, and later, Newman. In 2001, administration moved from Jigalong to Newman, and the organisation was incorporated under the CATSI Act in 2006.

After a challenging period of special administration in 2013–2014, PAMS stabilised and began a period of strong growth:

- 2018–2020: New clinics opened in Punmu, Parnngurr, and Newman
- 2022: Dialysis services launched in Newman
- 2023: Staff housing upgrades in Jigalong
- 2024: Celebrating 30 years of service

Today, PAMS delivers health care across five communities with a focus on cultural safety, community governance, and holistic care. Its growth reflects the strength, resilience, and leadership of Martu people.

Meet the Martu (Mardu) People History

Photograph: 1 a grinding stone from old camp sites of the Pujimen (bushmen)

The Martu are the traditional owners of the country which extends from the Great Sandy Desert in the north to around Wiluna in the south. Across this country, Martu share a common law, culture and language and are one of the oldest living cultures in the world with archaeological evidence dating artefacts as old as 39 000 years.

At its peak, there were over 600 different kin/language groups in the Martu region.

Like many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, Martu speak or understand numerous languages. For most Martu, even the children, English is a second, third or other language.

The Martu were some of the last of Australia's Indigenous people to make contact with European Australians with many migrating from their desert lands into neighbouring pastoral stations and missions in the 1950s and 1960s. Sometimes this migration followed the Canning Stock Route north to the eastern Kimberley or south to Wiluna and then east to Warakuna and Warburton. Many older people have first-hand experience of life prior to European contact and have extensive traditional cultural and ecological knowledge of their country. In 2002 the Martu were awarded native title rights to over 13.6 million hectares of the Western Desert. This is referred to as the Martu Native Title Determination. The determination stretches from the Percival Lakes in the north to south of Lake Disappointment, and from near Jigalong and Balfour Downs in the west to the Kiwirrkurra and Ngaanyatjarra native title determinations in the east.

The main communities in the determination are Jigalong, Parnngurr, Punmu and Kunawarritji. Jigalong is the most well-known of the communities having been established as a maintenance depot for the rabbit proof fence. It was made famous as the subject of a movie about three children who walked back from Moore River Settlement north of Perth called Rabbit Proof Fence (2002). Jigalong was subsequently turned into a mission before being handed over to the Martu people in 1969.

The other communities were established in the mid-1980s as a part of the then homelands movement, when people decided to return to live on their country.

As with many remote communities nationally, population numbers in the communities vary during the year.

“For Martu people who live in this land, it’s the song line and the land around this area, it’s so special to them. We connect with the land – it’s our dreaming, our spirits, our culture. It’s my life. It’s all Martu people’s ancestors, our great grandmother’s and grandfather’s. What the old people told me – to try and look after our culture, law and the land. So we need to protect Martu culture and the land and the community that lives around it.”

— Clifton Girgirba, Martu Ranger, KANYIRNINPA JUKURRPA

Meet the Nyiyaparli (Nee-Ya-Par-Li) People

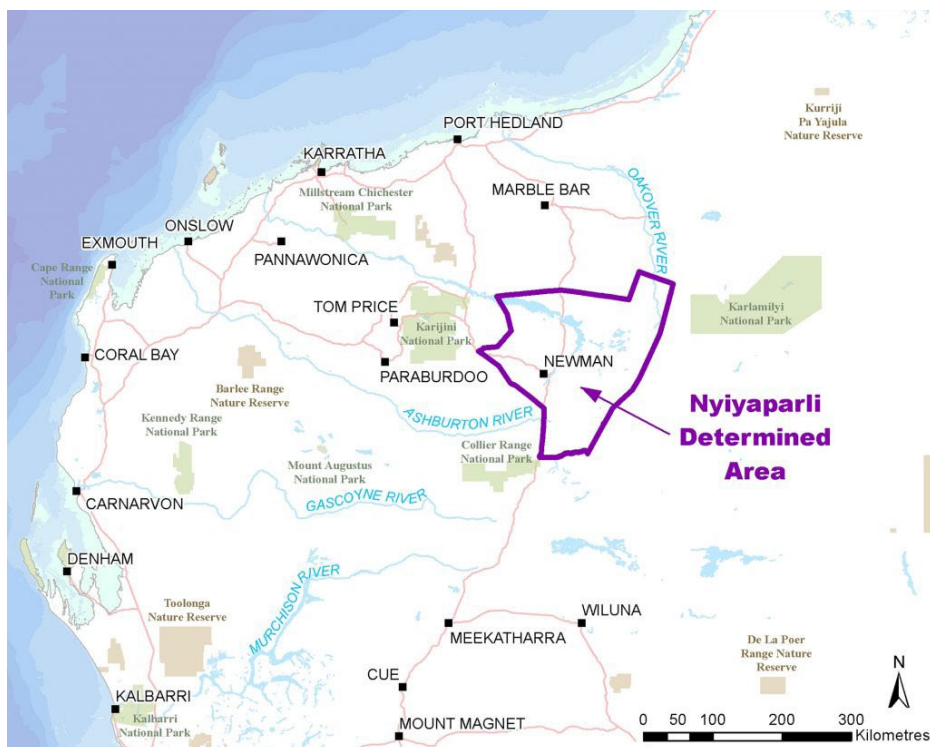

The Nyiyaparli people are the Traditional Owners of approximately 36,684 square kilometres of land and waters in the East Pilbara region, including the township of Newman in Western Australia.

It took almost two decades for the Nyiyaparli people to achieve Native Title recognition. Their first claim (WAD 6280 of 1998) was lodged with the National Native Title Tribunal on 29 September 1998. The Federal Court's determination brought together representatives from the court, state and federal governments, and Traditional Owners to witness this historic milestone.

The Determination Area spans around 40,000 square kilometres of traditional Nyiyaparli Country. It includes the town of Newman, the Aboriginal communities of Jigalong and Parnpajinya, several pastoral leases, and key mining operations.

While all parts of Country are important to the Nyiyaparli people, areas of particular cultural and environmental significance include the Fortescue Marsh, Weeli Wollie Creek, Coondiner Creek, Caramulla Creek, and Savoury Creek. Major geographic features such as the Hamersley, Chichester and Ophthalmia Ranges, as well as the Fortescue and Oakover Rivers, are also prominent across the landscape.

The Determination Area contains many places of deep cultural significance, including ceremonial sites, songlines, permanent pools, and natural resource areas that are vital to the continuation of Nyiyaparli culture and connection to Country.

Community Background

You are a guest in this 'country' delivering PAMS services and undertaking PAMS commitment to improved health care and health outcomes for the Martu and Niyaparli People.

Working across cultures requires patience, understanding and commitment of both groups.

Cultural issues influence both your private and working life on a daily basis and respectful sincerity in observing the protocols of the Martu and Niyaparli people will determine your working experience.

Acknowledgement of elders past and present and emerging and traditional owners of the area is considered respectful to the community and is an important recognition of their role in society.

Traditional medicine may be used in conjunction with clinic health practices. Marban is the title given to traditional cultural healers and often the Martu may be seen by a Marban prior to coming to the clinic and in some instances after.

Participating in sporting activities is extremely popular with young adults. In most Communities football, basketball and softball are the main sporting pastimes. These events often involve competing with other teams either in their own community or having to travel (often hundreds of kilometres) to another community.

At weekends a favourite for many Martu is hunting, which remains an important element in Martu culture and lives. All four remote communities (Jigalong, Parnngurr, Punmu and Kunawarritji) have a strict 'no alcohol' policy. This must be adhered to by all members of the community and visitors. All PAMS staff must therefore adhere to this policy.

Cultural Sensitivity

Avoidance Relationships

In Indigenous culture, there are specific cultural protocols that influence interpersonal interactions, including strict rules about who can engage with whom. These protocols are guided by skin group relationships and can result in avoidance relationships, where certain individuals are required to avoid direct contact or communication with one another.

These cultural obligations may impact how people move through or engage with public spaces, including workplaces and clinics. It's important to be understanding and respectful of these practices, as they play a significant role in maintaining cultural integrity and respect within the community.

Sorry Time and Lore (cultural traditions)

The news of a Martu / Nyiyaparli person passing away is extremely sensitive, particularly when the death is unexpected or the result of an injury or accident.

It is very important that the information is conveyed to the right members of the family by the right person in the right way.

If an Aboriginal Health Worker or Liaison Officer is available you should approach them and enquire as to who is the right person to pass the news on to the family, alternatively you could approach a PAMS Community Board of Director, an Elder or call PAMS Management staff. If you are the person informing the family of the death try not to use the person's name, you instead use phrases like 'the brother of'.

The period of time following the death of a community member and up until after the funeral may be referred to as Sorry Time. During this time meeting, events and activities may be cancelled due to Sorry Business happening in the community.

For many months to years after a Martu has passed away their name is not spoken so a different name might be used in reference to the deceased. People with the same name as the deceased will be known as "Nyaparuu" or may be known by their initials or take on another name.

Cultural Traditions

It is important to note that cultural business is sacred and is treated with respect at all times.

Lore is typically held between November and April, during which a range of Men's and Women's Business is conducted. It is important to respect cultural protocols — Men are not permitted in Women's Business areas, and Women are not permitted in Men's Business areas.

During Lore, men undergoing initiation must not be seen in public and will not attend the clinic. In some cases, they may permit a Remote Area Nurse (RAN) to visit their site for treatment, usually in the evenings. Where possible, this should be a male clinician in accordance with cultural preferences.

Local cultural intelligence and guidance should always be considered before planning any travel to communities during this period.

See specific location details below (under each community), regarding lore grounds and no go areas

Arriving in Newman and Working with PAMS

When a team member joins PAMS, the Corporate Services team assists with travel logistics and if applicable relocation arrangements.

Arriving in Newman:

If travelling by air, a designated team member will be organised to meet you at the Newman Airport on the day of your arrival; This person will be holding a PAMS sign for you to easily identify them.

On arrival into Newman, the team member will provide a brief tour of Newman and town amenities including the shopping precinct, fuel stations and other places of interest. You will then be directed to your accommodation which may be PAMS transit housing or accommodation via an external provider, this is dependent on availability.

Transit Accommodation (by PAMS)

PAMS has dedicated accommodation for transiting employees and visitors which may have shared kitchen, utilities and seating areas.

Each room has a welcome to Newman booklet, which will provide you with all the necessary information for you to navigate around Newman.

First couple of days in Newman

Your first few days in Newman and at PAMS will be spent meeting with the management, and attending welcome to country and a comprehensive induction. You may be scheduled for additional mandatory training where applicable. This is followed by Site based/Departmental orientation (led by respective managers) and may take up to over 2 – 4 weeks.

Mail Plane (Remote Community Travel)

Whilst travel to Jigalong is mostly undertaken via road, you will be travelling on the mail plane when travelling to remote communities of Parnngurr, Punmu and Kunawarritji. All mail planes to remote communities are scheduled for 9.00 am departure every Thursday. The limit on luggage is 15 kg and any weights above this amount are required to be paid by the traveller.

Alternatively, you have the opportunity to send through additional luggage by road with our team members who visit community regularly for different projects.

Considerations before Travelling to Communities

Groceries - As fresh food availability can be limited in remote communities, we recommend that you do a shop in Newman prior to your departure, this can be completed in person or via a Click and Collect (if your transit period is short). It is appropriate to arrange this a day prior to avoid last minute changes. If travelling by air, the food can be added on top of the 15kg limit, and costs relating to this additional ‘luggage’ will be absorbed by PAMS ; Your shopping will be weighed by the Corporate Services team at the Administration Hub on a Wednesday afternoon.

Phone and Internet Facilities – Whilst Punmu and Kunawarritji have no mobile service; Telstra is functional in Jigalong and Optus in Parnngurr. All communities have landline phones and internet facilities. Downloading capacity in remote communities is limited; everyone is encouraged to download personal entertainment items prior to departure to communities.

Board and Lodging – All employees and approved visitors are provided with Board and Lodging when in communities.

Travel – Due to safety reasons, PAMS does not recommend employees travelling to communities in their personal vehicles. We discourage traveling with pets for the same reason.

Each clinic profile outlines:

Clinic Facilities & Services

Details of the clinical setup, including consulting rooms, emergency capacity, treatment spaces, and any specialist features.

Opening Hours & Contacts

Standard operating hours and key contact numbers and emails for each clinic.

Travel, Permits & Mail Plane

Travel time from Newman, road conditions, whether permits are required, and how mail and supplies are delivered.

Staffing & Vehicles

Who is based at each clinic, staffing levels (single or double nurse posts), and the vehicles available for use on site.

Accommodation

Overview of staff housing — layout, furnishings, amenities — and what to expect when living in community.

Community Services

Local infrastructure such as fuel stations, schools, stores, and recreation facilities.

Cultural Protocols: No Go Areas & Lore Grounds

Each community contains sacred cultural sites — often referred to as No Go Areas — that must be respected at all times. These include areas used for Men's and Women's Lore, which may be off-limits seasonally or permanently. Staff must observe signage, seek local guidance if unsure, and avoid entering these areas. Understanding and respecting these protocols is vital to working safely and appropriately within Martu communities.

This section is critical for preparing staff to work respectfully in Martu Country and ensures your presence in community aligns with cultural obligations and expectations.
